```
/*****************************************************************************
 **                                                                          **
     Author: Alejandro Davila Murra                                        **
 **                                                                          **
     CS 2365: Object Oriented Programming                                  **
     Instructor: Elham Hojati                                              **
     TA: Judas Tadeo                                                       **
     Project #4                                                            **
     Due Date: Tuesday, May 10                                            **
     Last modification: 5/08/2017                                          **
 **                                                                          **
 ********************************************************************************/
```

GENERAL USAGE NOTES
- - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - -

- This program is supported by every OS with Java installed.
- To visit a different area to study you have to click on the area's tab.
- To visit a different subject you have to click on the subject's button.
- The Sample Code used for the subjects is a simple Create and Print method.
- Some subjects may not contain the complete list of corresponding methods.

HOW TO INSTALL/START
- - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - - -

- This program can be compiled in any Integrated Development Environment (IDE).
- It can also be compiled from the command line. For instructions to do this follow this link: http://www.wikihow.com/Compile-%26-Run-Java-Program-Using-Command-Prompt

FUTURE PLANS
- - - - - - - - - - - - -

- This project will be migrated to a Web Application.
- Actual practice problems will be added.
- Users will be encouraged to code using this web app.
- There wil be more code samples.

CONTACT
- - - - - - - -

Alejandro Davila
Email: alejandro.davila@ttu.edu
Website: alejandrodavila.com
Copyright 2017. All rights reserved.